

Good Woman Blues

Nominated by Romantic Times Magazine for Best Mainstream Multicultural of 2005 Erikka Rochon hits a major speed bump in her fast lane life of work, partying and more work in New Orleans. A successful accountant, shes convinced everything is adding up. Suddenly the party is over; her alcohol fueled work and play hard schedule lands lead to a major pile up. With her personal and professional life a wreck, Erikka accepts her aunts invitation to take a break in tiny Loreauville. When she meets serious, brooding Gabriel Cormier Erikka is definitely not in the mood for love. With his own troubled history to overcome, Gabriel has opted for a solitary life in his own home on family land. Hes not looking for romance either. But he sees something in Erikka that she doesnt even see in herself. Two people who are lonely, but dont know it, cautiously moved closer and closer until love finds them.
